GREATEST AUTOMOBILE RACE IN HISTORY STARTS ON WEDNESDAY MORNING ON INDIANAPOLIS TRACK

Twenty Four Cars Roar to Starting Line in 500-Mile International Sweepstakes Before Crowd Estimated at 150,000

Motor Speedway, Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—On every hand one hears nothing but superlatives.

The greatest automobile race in history started on the world's finest motor course before the largest crowd ever assembled in America to witness a sporting event. Twenty four racing motors started at 10 a.m. in the 500-mile international sweepstakes, paced around the two and a half mile brick track on the pre-starting lap. It was estimated that a crowd of 150,000 persons witnessed this Memorial Day speedway battle. Of this total more than 100,000 it was estimated, came from without the city of Indianapolis.

The city absorbed this monstrous crowd by filling every hotel, club and rooming house to the limit of possible human comfort and by opening private homes to "paying guests." And, in addition to thousands who were housed there were other thousands who camped, slept in automobiles or in public parks and some who just stayed up all night and milled around the downtown streets.

At the main entrance to the speedway last night there was a line of cars all night, their occupants indulging in what sleep they could until disturbed by the roaring of the three cars that were on the track at 4:15 for the final qualifying laps. These were the automobile race fans who are brothers under their skins to the world series fans, who camp for hours at bleacher gates. They were waiting at the entrance that leads to the free parking place inside the oval enclosure.

Soon after dawn every road leading to this Speedway, five miles west of the city, was jammed with automobiles carrying the tens of thousands of spectators toward the scene of conflict. With the beginning of the rush to the track a special interurban car left the downtown terminal every minute. A special Big Four train pulled out of the Union Station each eight minutes, beginning at six o'clock.

When the final car had sped around in qualifying trials last night twenty-three pilots had placed their mounts with an average of eighty miles an hour or better, but this was expected to increase through special permission from the American Automobile Association, which allowed three Dusenberg's the use of the track this morning in qualifying trials.

The skies were overcast this morning and promised a warm, sultry race day with threat of showers. It was rain, it was ideal weather for speed.

Tribute Paid to Memory of Salmon P. Chase Wednesday

Cincinnati, O., May 30.—Chief Justice William Howard Taft, of the United States Supreme Court, was the chief speaker today at a ceremony in memory of one of his greatest predecessors at the head of the nation's highest tribunal, Chief Justice Salmon Portland Chase.

Chief Justice Chase is called the only American ever to attain high rank in all three branches of the government.

Mr. Taft's address was devoted entirely to the career of the postbellum chief, all reference to modern politics being avoided by the former president.

The monument is a gift of the American Bar Association.

John W. Davis, of New York, made the presentation address.

On the national body's committee were Andrew W. Squier of Cleveland and Senator Selden Palmer Spencer of Missouri.

A delegation from the Ohio supreme court was present and a Cleveland party was headed by Paul Lamb, law director of Cleveland.

Tribute Paid to Fallen Soldiers in Impressive Services Which Have Culmination in Exercises At Cemetery

The boom of the cannons at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home early Wednesday morning awoke Xenians to the realization that the country is paying its annual tribute to the fallen heroes of its wars.

The annual salute was especially significant at the Home where it marked the highest military homage that may be paid to a fallen soldier.

Soldiers of three wars were on the streets of Xenia, Wednesday morning, wearing the blue of the Civil War and the khaki of the great World War. They too were preparing to pay military tribute to the memory of their departed comrades who are now resting in Xenia and Greene County cemeteries or in graves on foreign battlefields.

Graves were decorated at Woodland Cemetery Tuesday evening by Sons and Daughters of Veterans, American Legion and Auxiliary members and Boy and Girl Scouts. Wednesday morning military services were held at the Catholic Cemetery, Beavercreek Cemetery, Stevenson Cemetery and at Mercer Cemetery with a member of Lewis Post Grand Army of the Republican, in charge of each graveyard.

At 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the annual Memorial Day parade was held with all veterans organizations, many of them in uniform, composing a large part of the procession which wound its way from the center of the city to Woodland Cemetery for the exercises there.

Mr. Sandies will also be the speaker at the exercises at the Woman's Relief Corps monument there, there will be music, Lincoln's address at Gettysburg, a salute by a firing squad and taps.

There were many visitors in the city Wednesday, who came to pay tribute at the graves of relatives or friends. Business houses in most instances were closed all day, others closed at noon and the city early took on a holiday atmosphere.

MASONIC CLUB OF XENIA GIVES LAST PROGRAM OF YEAR

The last program of the Masonic Club for the season, held at the Masonic Hall, Tuesday evening, was one of the most enjoyable of the year and attended by about 200 members of the lodge and their families.

The principal feature of the program was a "sing" in charge of Mr. McClellan of the National Cash Register Co., of Dayton, who led several patriotic songs, illustrated by slides, in which the audience joined. A new moving picture camera, belonging to the N. C. R., and which had never before been used, was loaned the club through the courtesy of Frederick B. Patterson. Two-reel comedies were shown, for the amusement of the guests.

The patriotic program was carried out with a splendid address by Mrs. William Magee Wilson, one of the vice president general of the D. A. R. The Rev. W. H. Tilford, in a short talk, explained the playground project in the city, and the plans for massed play among the children. The project as explained by the Rev. Mr. Tilford met with the approval of the audience.

Mrs. W. H. McGervey sang two solos accompanied by Mrs. Alice Ruthrauff. Mrs. D. D. Jones gave two readings, followed by Miss Helen Whittington, who sang two solos, accompanied by Mrs. Ruthrauff. A social time was had during the remainder of the evening, during which Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kany, served a delicious lunch.

LARGEST STILL EVER TAKEN HERE CONFISCATED IN RAID ON KYLE HOME SOUTH OF FAIRFIELD

Apparatus With 300-Gallon Capacity Reposing in Greene County Jail Following Discovery Tuesday Afternoon.

The largest still ever taken in Greene County was confiscated by raiding officers of Greene and Clark Counties in a raid on the home of Elmer C. Kyle, on the Old Dayton road, south of Fairfield Tuesday afternoon.

Kyle is now in the Clark County Jail serving out a fine of $300 and costs imposed upon him by Judge Krapp in Clark County Common Pleas Court several weeks ago when he was found guilty of transporting liquor and the 300-gallon still, which officials estimate would have an earning capacity at present bootlegging prices of at least $2,000 a day, is reposing in the Greene County Jail.

The raid was conducted by Sheriff Morris Sharp and Deputy George Spencer of Greene County, State Prohibition Enforcement Agent John M. Powell and Special Deputies Clark Burks and Frank Haerr, of Clark County. A charge of possessing equipment for the manufacture of liquor will be preferred against Kyle and he will be arrested and prosecuted on the charge as soon as he is released from the Clark County Jail, according to authorities.

Floyd Kyle, a brother of Elmer Kyle, was also arrested at the Clark County Jail Tuesday afternoon while visiting his brother and is being held for Sheriff Sharp. He will be brought here and prosecuted on a similar charge of possessing property with which to manufacture liquor, it is said. While making the raid Tuesday, Sheriff Sharp learned Kyle was visiting his brother in Springfield and telephoned Springfield authorities to arrest and hold him.

The still confiscated was the largest and most complete ever taken in a raid in Greene County. The six-foot boiler is of 300-gallon capacity, and two cranes through which the vapor passed were supplied instead of one. The coils were of inch and one-quarter copper. Hot plates and other apparatus were confiscated also.

A whiskey reservoir composed of two 50-gallon barrels buried in the ground, with a pump attachment with which to transfer the liquor from the barrels was also discovered. Mrs. Kyle is alleged to have admitted to officers that the reservoir had contained whiskey, although it was empty at the time of the raid. The still was found hidden in the barn, while the coils and top were found beneath fodder in the barnyard, the Ford was commenting on the statement of Senator Ashurst of Arizona, declaring that the sentiment in 19 middle western states favored Ford for president.

At the same time Ford announced that he planned to maintain his schedule of 6,700 cars a day, not only during the summer and fall, but all through next winter and spring, from present indications. And this, he said, was without taking into consideration his newly inaugurated $5 a week saving plan, the effect of which as yet entered on the order books of the company.

Ford was unwilling to talk about "Ford for president," declaring that no authoritative group has as yet signed them want him for the job. "As far as national problems go," he said, "the two biggest problems we have at this time is the railroads and the judiciary. We pay our judges such inadequate salaries that some of them are retained by corporations because they do not get enough to live on. There is no question but that the railroads should operate under one central head. Freight rates should be regulated in such manner as to bolster transportation instead of stifling it."

Getting back to his own business, Ford said: "We need all our profits for the expansion of our business and the employment of more men. We are now making between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 a month."

Figures compiled show that Ford produced 160,000 of the 365,000 cars and trucks made in the United States in April. In Detroit there are about one-third of the 340,000 industrial workers directly on his payroll, and indirectly many thousands more.

Ford said the response to the $5 a week payment plan and been amazing. Some doubtful bankers went out as agents for a few days when the subject was first broached, and their canvass turned them from critics to supporters of the plan. Tractor production, he said, has reached $50 a day, but he believes it will not become profitable until an output of 1,000 a day is reached.

LIBRARY TO BENEFIT FROM LECTURE ON TUESDAY EVENING

The Library Association will realize generously from the interesting lectures and entertainment furnished by R. Hayes Hamilton, creator of the Hamilton Travolutes at the Jean B. Elwell Auditorium of the new Central High School Tuesday night.

Mr. Hamilton, who donated his services, was greeted by a large audience. Especially interesting were the motion pictures of Miss Jean B. Elwell, for whom the auditorium was named, of the new and old high school buildings and of the class of 1923.

The pictures were taken by Mr. Hamilton himself and represented particularly clever bits of photography. The local pictures were shown as a prologue following a selection by the High School Orchestra, composed of Don Currie, Vic Weaver, Robert Hurley, William Horner and Miss Helen Hurley preceding the introduction by Principal Harper C. Pendry of Central High School.

Mr. Hamilton was assisted by William T. Whittington, motion picture machine operator and Arthur Currie, cinematograph operator.

EXAMINE NINE CHILDREN MONDAY

Nine crippled children were examined by Dr. James Walker, orthopedic surgeon of Dayton, at the Rotary Red Cross crippled children's clinic Monday morning at the Court House.

Four of the children were examined for the first time, five being old cases. Three of the children were from Xenia, one from Spring Valley, one from Beavercreek Twp., one from Bath Twp., one from Silvercreek Twp. (Jamestown) and two from Miami Twp. (Yellow Springs).

One case was recommended for a major operation, one for a minor operation, one child was fitted with a brace, one had an X-ray taken, 4 were recommended for special treatment other than operation, and one came in for observation only.

The Red Cross is meeting with splendid co-operation throughout the county with the families of the children, physicians and laymen according to officials. Through the Rotary Club and Red Cross a splendid piece of constructive work is being done for Greene County, they say.

STYLES

Although printed crepes have long been featured as the dominant note in the spring and summer fashions, plain silk dresses of the variety that may be worn throughout the summer are by no means in the background of interesting models. They are shown in various silhouettes. Straight lines usually characterize the dress to be worn in the mornings, but the afternoon dress takes more liberties.

INSTITUTE PLANNED FOR LEADERSHIP IN RECREATIONAL WORK

Plans for an institute to instruct playground leaders in story telling, dramatization and pageantry were laid at a meeting of the drama committee of the Community Recreation Association at the playground campaign headquarters, 48 East Main street, Tuesday afternoon.

The committee is composed of Mrs. Lois Olcott, chairman; Miss Jean B. Elwell, Mrs. Charles Adair, Mrs. W. Crawford Craig, H. A. Higgins, Roy C. Hayward and H. E. Klemmer. The work of the committee was outlined when the meeting opened by Frank H. Young, of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, who is directing the campaign.

The institute, which it is hoped to hold next week, will be for people of all ages, from graduates of high school up. They will be given instruction in how to tell stories to children, develop dramatic talent pageants, which will be part of the playground and recreation work this summer if the campaign meets with success.

It was brought out at the meeting that there is latent dramatic talent in everyone, only waiting to be brought out, and this will be a big part of the playground program. Members of the committee were asked to bring at least ten prospective dramatic workers apiece to the institute, the date of which will be announced later.

OUTLINES PLANS AND OBJECTS OF PLAYGROUND WORK

"Ladies Night" was the occasion of another pleasurable informal meeting of the members of the Xenia Rotary Club, Tuesday evening, at the Elks' Club.

About sixty people, members of the club and their wives, attended the dinner and program. Features of the program were in charge of the "stunt committee" which furnished an evening of entertainment for the guests. Following several amusing events, Edwin Woodward and F. H. Young, sponsors of the playground movement in Xenia, explained the project before the body.

Mirth was added to the occasion when Mr. Young introduced a series of group games in which members of the club and their guests participated.

OVER 2 THOUSAND SCHOOL PUPILS COMPLETE WORK

Two thousand and twenty-five pupils completed the school year in the Xenia City public schools which closed last week, according to final facts of the year compiled by Superintendent of Schools C. A. Waltz.

Of this number 1,021 were boys and 1,004 were girls. The total enrollment in high school was 540 which represents 25.73 percent of the total enrollment. There were 62 teachers employed and 93 students graduated from Xenia High Schools.

In the high schools 17 per cent of the total enrollment graduated and only 4.4 per cent failed of promotion in two or more subjects. In the elementary schools only 3.8 per cent of the enrollment failed of promotion.

These percentages of failure, 4.4 per cent in the high schools and 3.8 per cent in the grades are very low and give evidence of the success of the three-group plan of instruction, the mental and educational testing in use and the efficiency and exactness of the teachers' work according to Superintendent Waltz.

"With the continuation of the above methods," said Mr. Waltz, "together with the cooperation of parents with the school in seeing to it that children do their work thoroughly thus backing up the efforts of the teachers in that direction, we should realize the great ideal of having a 'flunkless' school next year."

"Xenia can well be proud of the record of having more than 25 percent of all its school children in the high schools and of having had work so well done by teachers and pupils that only 4 per cent of the enrollment of over 2,000 children, failed to pass. Education comes high but with such a record as that it certainly pays."

"The School Administration takes this opportunity to thank the patrons of the schools, the citizens, the various P. T. A. organizations and all who have given cooperation, constructive criticism and patronage to the schools and school activities.

"Let all parents begin next year with the slogan to 'Know Your Schools' and your child's teacher."

a bringing together of the people of our community, without regard to party, class or creed, but just as "folks." It means wholesome leisure time activities which make for better health, better character, and better citizenship. "It is the people's own expression of the social instinct in a natural and wholesome way and brings them together in a truly democratic spirit. By talking together, playing together, and working together, for the community, its members become better friends and better citizens," Mr. Woodward explained.

"Leisure time activities may be social, recreational, educational and civic in character, but what Xenia needs is playgrounds with trained leaders, wholesome indoor and outdoor sports, the wider use of school buildings as social and recreational centers, open forums, community houses, rest rooms, for strangers and rural visitors. Libraries, information and service bureaus, neighborhood associations, community music, drama and pageantry, patriotic and holiday celebrations, a citizenship program, for better citizen ship, other forms of 'off-time' activities in which large groups can get together."

"Figures show that Xenia is spending more than $350,000 a year for gum, candy, sodas, ice cream, movies, tobacco, unnecessary jewelry, etc., and a comprehensive program under expert direction, will cost, less than one hundredth of this amount.

F. H. Young, representative of the Playground and Recreation Associations of America, demonstrated to the members of the club and their wives, the wholesome value of massed play, teaching them various childhood games, which will be taught on the playgrounds planned.

HARD LUCK WINS LONG PROBATION

Los Angeles, May 30.—The bad luck of Sam Hutchinson, after all, proved to be his good luck, both in and out of crime.

In fact, Hutchinson had such a run of bad luck that he was lucky enough to get probation on a charge of being a member of a band of box car burglars.

It was after his arrest that Hutchinson's hard luck story was brought out. In the first place, when it came to entering the box cars he was always unlucky enough to get an empty one, while his pals, on the other hand, consistently entered cars in which was found valuable loot.

Then, on the night he was arrested his wife was taken to the hospital. A few days later a gas main in his home broke and his house was destroyed by fire. It was not insured.

Hutchinson's story of woe and bad luck was told when he appeared before Judge Avery. It was apparent from his story that if he were sent to prison his wife and child would be the greatest sufferers of his wrongs. Judge Avery placed Hutchinson on probation for 10 years, and if his bad luck departs he will make good, he told Judge Avery.

Revolutionary Cemetery

Graves Are Found Empty

Darien, Conn., May 30.—Absolutely no trace of bodies was found in the historic old cemetery on the Boston Post road here, when an effort was made to remove supposed remains of Revolutionary soldiers before the post road was widened, and the furore created among patriotic societies when the proposition first was broached seems to have been useless. Removing a dozen gravestones of ancient date, workers found only a few pieces of metal beneath, one being a brass hinge. Now it is believed the bodies were buried elsewhere and the stones erected for camouflage purposes in the stormy Revolutionary days when this was practically "No Man's Land."

AMMONIA FAILS TO STOP DRY OFFICIAL

Tampa, Fla., May 30.—An unusual form of defense was employed by Bert Fife, living near St. Petersburg, when officers raided his homestead to demolish a moonshine liquor still they claimed was there.

Fife and his partner had a large bottle of ammonia on hand, to which a syringe was attached. With this the ammonia was thrown in a stream for about ten feet. Constable C. J. Simms was able to dodge the stream of liquid but the fumes stopped him "stand pat" and refuse to move.

As soon as the ammonia supply had given out the officer advanced and made his arrests.

CHICAGOANS FIGHT INCREASED RENTAL

Chicago, May 30.—The Tenants' League is mobilizing its forces once more to resist Chicago landlords who may seek to boost rents on May 1, according to Grace H. Hart, the league's attorney.

Miss Hart declared that 50,000 Chicago tenants of apartment houses and residences have agreed to refuse to sign leases on the places they occupy, and even though they may be served with eviction papers will "stand pat" and refuse to move.

Columbus, Ohio, May 30.—Mrs. Frank Aisel has an old gray mare that "ain't what she used to be." In fact, the old gray mare is dead.

Mrs. Aisel tied the mare to a pole, and during her absence the steed, fearing the need of exercise, began pawing the ground, after the manner of festive equines.

U. S. TOO ALOOF FROM REST OF WORLD, SAYS HENRY ALLEN.

Henry J. Allen, former Governor of Kansas, back from a six weeks' inspection tour in the Near East in the interests of the Near East Relief, declares his belief is "strengthened that the United States is too far off from the rest of the world, and I am more than ever impressed with the feeling that my country ought to follow President Harding's suggestion and join the International Court." All objections to the plan he labeled as insincere.

"In Russia the only question is how long one class of people will continue to work so another class may enjoy an industrial paradise. This so-called 'Government by the people' is supported, as was the Government of the Czar, by the bayonets of a standing army. The Russians are a slow moving people but I do not think they will stand the present crowd as long as they did the Romanoffs. The Soviet is doing things the other crowd did not dare to do."

Based on what he heard, Mr. Allen reached the conclusion that the oligarchy said to be in control of the Soviet Government would some day be wiped out as a result of the greatest program in the history of Russia.

The ex-Governor does not believe that Turkey alone can ever govern Constantinople as it would be impossible for her to hold off her former enemies. "Turkey ought to turn the Dardanelles over to the League of Nations," he said. "It is a virgin region for a war-preventing agency. The best thing that could happen would be to let the Turk develop a Government in the interior of the country and let an international manœuvre control Constantinople in equal justice to everybody else."

Everybody talked about the Chester concession from the Caliph to the Greek patriarch. Undoubtedly many excellent opportunities for the development of resources and manifestly the greatest need for equipment have been provided by the Chester concession. On the other hand one of the difficulties confronting those attempting to market the Chester option is the fact that the restrictions provided may impress American capitalists as being too burdensome.

"One, for instance, stipulated that all labor employed be Turkish. The American capitalist has discovered that he can get all the labor difficulties he wants without especially providing for them in a contract."

Special tribute was paid to the United States Navy by Mr. Allen, who said its relief work in the Near East has made it a great missionary agency for the United States, teaching "the proclamation of doctrine not anti-anything."

THE WETS AND 1924.

Uneasy political strategists are said to be troubling themselves about the "wet issue" in the 1924 campaign. They dwell unduly on the November, 1922, results in New York, New Jersey and Missouri. The hot air generated is taking on the shape of Senator Underwood, of Alabama, emerging from a wet Democratic convention next year as a wet candidate on a wet platform. In a dull and torpid time when rumors run and speculations flourish, the wet web is spun like this:

Underwood, wet son of a bone-dry Solid South, can make the South forget its dryness in its pride of him. Ten States, then, of the old Solid South would give him 114 electoral votes. Alabama would give 12; Arkansas 9; Florida 6; Georgia 14; Louisiana 10; Mississippi 10; North Carolina 12; South Carolina 9; Texas 20, and Virginia 12.

To these the wet pipe-dreamers add some 89 more; Massachusetts 18; Rhode Island 5; Connecticut 7; New York 45, and New Jersey 14. Total 203 votes. Not enough.

So, to the Solid South and the sloshing wet Atlantic seaboard add Missouri's 18 and the "border States," Maryland 8; Kentucky 13, and Tennessee 12. In their wildest moments the wets can find but 254 possible Democratic votes, or 12 short of the number needed. All of this time they are forgetting William Jennings Bryan, who has at least one grand fight left in him yet.

They are also forgetting or ignoring that Senator Underwood is on the black book of the suffragists. In her book, "Woman Suffrage and Politics," Carrie Chapman Catt refers to him as one "who shared dishonor with Senator Reed as the chief obstructionist" in the 1919 Senate debate. In the blowing of bubbles it is easy to forget many matters.

The Underwood wet web is filled with "ifs" and "buts." Is the Democratic Party ready to go wet? Even the Solid South may balk, for it has been as dry, politically, as a fence rail in August. Underwood may not be able to head off Ralston, McAdoo or some other Democratic runner. He might refuse to run as a wet candidate even though party and platform were awash with wetness. The "border States" are most uncertain quantities. Missouri is not hitched to Democracy, although the Tribe of the Show-Mes verily is a wet tribe.

It is a Lost Cause. Two years ago there might have been a chance for it out this way. We are beginning to forget it now and we want to forget it.

Exactly. The issue is not an issue any longer, taking the country as a whole. Outside of maybe a dozen States, it is not in the voter's mind. He accepts it as settled and is thinking of other things.

WHAT WE OWE TO BLUE SPARK.

Electricity has done so much to modernize every community in the country that it is difficult to measure its effect. Electricity is an essential element of modern life. If we picture the functions it performs for the community as for an individual electricity furnishes light for our eyes, speech and sound for our ears, transportation to our bodies, strength to our arms, heat for our comfort and service, and power to our industries.

A great modern city without necessities and conveniences furnished by electricity is almost unthinkable, and should one follow the daily life of an individual from the time he gets up in the morning to the time he goes to bed, the use he makes of the power furnished by the modern appliances of electricity is almost continuous throughout the day.

1903--Twenty Years Ago--1923

Mr. Arthur Kany is being highly congratulated on the success of his dramatization of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," as given by the senior class of Xenia High School Friday evening. On such occasions enough cannot be said in praise of Miss Elwell's faithful work. Mr. Fred R. Torrence, a former Xenia boy, who is connected with "Success" in New York City, displays his talent in a cleverly written illustrated article in the June number of that publication.

What might have been a serious accident occurred yesterday afternoon on the D. and X. traction line on the hill on the Shaker Pike, when one of the forward wheels on the car suddenly went to pieces. The motorman fortunately had his car under control and stopped it before any damage was done.

Invitations have been issued by the junior class of the High School for their farewell reception to the senior class at the new McKinley building Friday evening.

TOILET IMPLEMENTS

Most people make the great mistake of buying too many toilet articles. It is not necessary to have a lot of toilet implements lying on the dressing table; in fact it is a sign of bad taste, and worse than that, it is good looking powder bowl and mirror the rest of the things may be the cheapest variety of unpainted wood. They should be kept out of sight in a drawer. This is the newest idea in furnishing a boudoir, and certainly much better than a lot of cheap, mussy, dust-collecting articles scattered over the table top.

Of course, whether it shows or not a handsome toilet set is a prize possession for any woman. I would advise you to collect your set gradually piece by piece, putting all the money you can spare at any one time into something really worth while, something you will always be glad to own. The powder bowl will be the first and most expensive item and does not match the set. The next most costly thing is the mirror. I would suggest perfectly plain silver with a monogram or a plain or inlaid tortoiseshell. After that collect the manicure pieces, then the comb and finally the hair brush and cloth brush, which will be equally expensive. After that you may pick up little ointment jars and pots as you can afford them. A few handsome pieces on the dressing table top are permissible, but in no case should it look cluttered.

OLDE ENGLISHMAN—The history of the Lee penny, the most celebrated talisman in the world, is as follows: It is a silver coin, and formed part of the ransom paid for a Saracen. Its value depends merely upon the fact that it is supposed to be capable of curing any ailment, and for this purpose it was hired in 1665 by a plague-stricken town in exchange for securities of 25,000 English pounds.

J. F. Mellage, shoemaker, 426 W. Second St., Xenia, says: "My back throbbed and ached constantly. Every time I stooped the least bit I got a stab of pain through my back that felt just like a knife cut. When I bent it was hard to straighten again, my back was so knotted up. Mornings I dreaded to get up, I was so stiff and lame. I easily tired and soon became very weak. My kidneys were too free in action and I had to get up several times at night to pass the secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly praised that I got some. I used about six boxes when I was absolutely cured of the backache and my kidneys again became normal."

Today's Talk

It is well to know the names of the ones who stand ready to trip us up when we least suspect it—and also it is well to know a little about them, their habits and characteristics.

Here is the name of one of these fellows—Mr. Ghost! He is after us all. None can escape him, for he is the craftiest, cleverest and cruellest of all the "trippers."

The more intelligent you are, the stronger in body or mind, the more liable is Mr. Ghost to lie in wait for you. Only the always alert are able to escape his snares.

Mr. Ghost dresses up differently for different people. One day you will see him in his neat suit of conventionality, then again he flashes out in his mysterious makeup of fear. He stops people on the street, talks flatly and tries to make them miss their appointments because he is so quick to detect any unsureness of thought or manner.

How different would all our lives be were it not that we have to dodge and fight this Mr. Ghost all the time! "I can" and "I will" are two expressions that make Mr. Ghost tremble. And when you say to his face "I am not afraid," he turns and runs so fast that before you hardly realize it he is no more.

Mr. Ghost doesn't like crowds. He likes to come to folks when they are alone, for he is a great arguer and if anything is sure to destroy poise and break down a happy frame of mind, it is argument. So—when you meet Mr. Ghost alone, just give him one look right into the eyes and tell him—well, tell him that you don't need him that's all!

Bear in mind at all times, however, that Mr. Ghost is no weakling. He comes best with those who are strongest.

But you must be stronger than he! Dismiss him. He is ONLY a Ghost!

High-Pressure Oiling—2 Gallons a Minute!

LUBRICATION is life—in motors. Because it defeats wear and vibration, Jewett has a hollow crankshaft, high-pressure system, forcing 2 gallons of oil per minute to all main and connecting rod bearings, and spraying the entire internal mechanism. Metal never rubs metal in a Jewett motor—a thin film of oil safe guards bearings.

The results of such ideal lubrication are real smoothness and decided silence. Further, the continuous oil-stream tends to keep bearings cool, and Jewett takes long distances at high speeds, climbs continued grades, or trudges soft roads, without overheating. You know what happens to cars equipped with circulating and splash lubrication, under like conditions. Let us show you the Jewett! You try to overheat it.

JOHNSON STILL STRONG. BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, May 30.—Ban Johnson may be all his enemies proclaim him to be but the reported sale of the Red Sox over Harry Frazee's well known head, makes it appear as though Byron still swings some influence in American league politics. Johnson has been gunning for Frazee for some years. If, as reported, Frazee is about to sell the club to friends, the transaction represents a personal and political victory for the former czar of baseball.

It is barely possible, also, that Johnson was moderately pleased by the fact that Col. T. L. Huston sold out his share in the New York Yankees to Jake Ruppert. Huston and Frazee were the irreconcilables of the American league circuit. They were pronounced anti-Johnson men.

Just what hand the president of the American league held in the transfer of Huston's stock is not known but the coincidence whereby Frazee is said to be ready to depart from baseball is almost too spontaneous to be

RAILROAD BRIDGE TO BE BEAUTIFIED WITH FLOWER BOXES

The Pennsylvania railroad overhead bridge on South Detroit Street will be beautified this season with flower boxes according to statements made by C. A. Kennedy, gardener for the railroad, and for the first time in two years the depot park, and the railroad park on South Detroit adjoining the Springfield branch, will be given special attention and made real beauty spots.

Mr. Kennedy states that he has a profusion of Zinnia plants and as he has more than can be used in the company parks he will have between two and three hundred plants that he will give away. Persons willing plants are asked to call at the depot supply room any morning between 7 and 8 o'clock.

The beautifying work planned by the railroad company will be a very great help in making Xenia a city beautiful this summer and will be greatly appreciated by local people.

Madrid, May 26—Moorish tribesmen, who renewed their war against the Spaniards in Morocco have been defeated in battle while trying to capture the Spanish lines of communication. WEDS DYING SWEETHEART BY LONG-DISTANCE TELEPHONE

Madrid, May 26—Moorish tribesmen, who renewed their war against the Spaniards in Morocco have been defeated in battle while trying to capture the Spanish lines of communication. The Moors seem to have had the right of way of it. With Huston gone and Frazee formation about to take his leave, Johnson has the personal satisfaction of controlling his own league, if nothing else, leaving Comiskey the alternative of yes-ing the rest of them or forever holding his peace.

Justice Hal P. Hughes, of Fort Worth, Texas, is shown performing the ceremony that made Helen Satterwhite, seated beside him, the bride of Horace W. Keller, a United States sailor, who at the time of the marriage, was 2,000 miles away, confined to his bed with pneumonia in the Naval Hospital at Bremerton, Washington. A total of 46,000 miles of telephone wires were necessary for the routing of the nuptials. The couple had been sweethearts since childhood and were engaged to be married but his serious illness caused her desire to hasten the marriage before his death.

Mrs. Ella Bryant

STORAGE, The Miami Cereal Co. Phone 812-W. 3-231

Mrs. Ella Bryant, widow of the late Clarence Bryant passed away at her home 124 Lexington Ave. about 3 p. m. May 27, 1923, from an attack of acute indigestion which she suffered for about fifteen minutes prior to her passing away, being in apparently as good health as was usual.

Mrs. Bryant was the daughter of the late Jethro and Rachel Hurst and was born and reared in Xenia.

When quite a small child, she met with an accident which caused her to become blind. She attended an institution for the blind and learned many things which made her skillful with her hands and intelligent and alert for one thus afflicted. In spite of the blindness, she cared for her home and self in a commendable manner.

Being naturally of a sunny disposition, she made many friends and was a true friend.

Mrs. Bryant possessed a very sweet voice and loved to sing. At one time traveling with a company of religious enthusiasts singing spirituals.

Early in life she was united in marriage with Clarence Bryant being a faithful wife until his death April 12, 1915. One child who died in infancy blessed this union.

Mrs. Bryant was a member of Middle Run Baptist Church.

She leaves two sisters and three brothers as follows: Mrs. Philip Matthews, Mrs. Effie O'reare, William, Harry, Blythe Hurst of this city, two nieces and five nephews, Ruth O'reare, Thelma, Calvin, Edgar, Pierce Howard and Kenneth Hurst.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock p. m. from the late residence 124 Lexington Ave.

E. E. K.—"Here are two little hints which may help other women. When baking apples I always fill the center-holes with brown sugar and a small piece of butter; and when stewing prunes I generally slice one small lemon into one pound of prunes."

Answer.—Thank you. It is just these little things that the housekeeper finds helpful.

Mrs. N. M.—"I have two lovely parchment lamp shades which are badly out of shape. Can anyone tell me how to get them back into their original round shape?"

Answer.—Let us hope that if any Reader Friend knows she will drop me a postal telling how. I can then publish the information in this column.

A. N. C.—"How can I remove grease stains from a gummed-topped rug?"

Answer.—Beeswax is the only thing I know of that will thoroughly clean gummetal.

Housewife.—"How kindly advise me how to make a braided rag mat—how wide to cut the strips, what colors to use and how to construct the rug?"

Answer.—You did not say what kind of rags you intended to use—cotton or wool. But I shall assume you mean cotton. (Although a wool mat wears longer.) Old table linen or cotton sheets are excellent to use, for they can be died the desired color. I personally favor a gray and old-rose combination or a gray and old-blue. Cut your strips two inches wide and double lengthwise, folding in the extreme edges so there will be no raveling. Crease and begin to braid three strands of these folded strips. Or, if you prefer, you can braid five strands of them. Sew this braid round and round from the center. A pretty pattern is obtained by braiding the two colors for the center part, then changing to all gray (or all rose) strands for several rows, then returning to a mixture of the two colors—until the rug is the desired size.

Mrs. C. C.—"How can a jelly roll be rolled without breaking?"

Answer.—Have a sheet of brown paper under the cake and keep this paper pressed against the cake as you roll. There is a little knack about it, but the paper is the secret of success.

SAYS FRENCH ARMY IS ALL DRESSED UP AND NO PLACE TO GO

That the French Army in the Ruhr is "all dressed up with no place to go" was the assertion of J. Henry Scattergood, Philadelphia manufacturer, who has just returned from the Ruhr where he went to investigate food conditions under the auspices of the American Friends Service Committee, in addressing students of Antioch College Tuesday afternoon.

"Passive resistance, or turning the other cheek, is the way Germany is meeting the Ruhr invasion," he said. "When the French troops enter a town, the German workmen stop their industrial activities and the invaders are up against the problem of providing their own labor. Having gone into Germany with the prime purpose of obtaining coal, they are failing because they are afraid to go underground for it. The fear of cut ropes keeps the French miners on the surface."

"The great fall in value of the mark has caused Germans to spend their fortunes, which they had accumulated for years. Rather than see them deprecate under their eyes they are squandering their money as rapidly as possible. Of course this causes great activities in the factories and results in reports of Germany's improved industrial activities which are brought back by tourists."

"The World Court is the best solution of the present international crisis regardless of politics, it is a crime if it should be made a political issue by either of the great parties."

The five directors were elected at a stockholders' meeting Tuesday morning and will be supplemented by four additional directors soon.

NATALIE'S HOME COMING

Chapter VIII

During her two weeks' honeymoon Natalie occasionally thought of the lovely home that soon would be hers. She asked no questions just took it for granted that she, Horace's wife, would have the ordering of it. Before leaving her own home in a distant town she had helped her mother about the house and with the cooking. And while she knew she would have servants, she anticipated this home of her own with delight.

Horace often spoke of his mother, and wrote her nearly every day. But what he said had to do with her health and his hope that she was not lonely. Natalie's lip quivered. It was her best, her wedding dress. The day they were married Horace had told her she looked very sweet. But he had said nothing of that sort now, although she had taken great pains with her hair, and had felt quite satisfied until he spoke. She turned her head that he might not see her disappointment.

"I'll give you a bank account," he went on, "and buy what is necessary. Then you can order things made. Mother will tell you where to go."

Natalie made no answer, dinner was just then announced, and none was needed. She followed Horace from the room and hesitated behind him as he tapped on his mother's door. When she came out he offered his arm and they went down the stairs Natalie feeling rather forlorn as she followed.

Horace seated his mother, then drew out her chair. As she sank into it she felt Mrs. Crandell's eyes upon her.

"You should have told your wife we dress for dinner, Horace," she said. "It is a rule of the house," this to Natalie. In spite of her age, Mrs. Crandell was in dinner dress, shimmering violet silk and old lace, and looked very aristocratic, very elegant. "I left the choice of our rooms to you, Natalie. Mother, of course, has the rooms on the front on this floor. I have been using these because I liked to be near her, and should prefer them, but if you like we can have the third floor front. Come look at them, then decide."

He had already shown her the rooms he preferred, a large study, bedroom and bath. The study would be converted into a sitting room for her if she desired, and he would have his study on the upper floor.

Natalie really preferred the third floor rooms, but as Horace displayed them to her she showed so plainly that he wanted to remain on the same floor with his mother that Natalie said she would decide on them.

"They are all so lovely, Horace. I feel as if I were in fairy land. They look awfully like a man's rooms, though. I—

"Get anything you want for them. I'll wager they won't look like bachelor's quarters very long," he said, kissing her. He was really pleased at her decision.

"'Whew!' he exclaimed, looking at his watch. "We'll have to hurry and get dressed. The Mater is terribly strict about being prompt at meals. Don't forget that, dear."

"Do you always dress for dinner at home?" Natalie asked.

"Of course!" he looked at her in surprise.

Natalie donned her wedding dress, the simple crepe. Horace looked at her critically.

"You must get some clothes at once. Mother will scarcely consider you properly dressed for dinner in that gown."

Natalie's lip quivered. It was her best, her wedding dress. The day they were married Horace had told her she looked very sweet. But he had said nothing of that sort now, although she had taken great pains with her hair, and had felt quite satisfied until he spoke. She turned her head that he might not see her disappointment.

"I'll give you a bank account," he went on, "and buy what is necessary. Then you can order things made. Mother will tell you where to go."

Natalie made no answer, dinner was just then announced, and none was needed. She followed Horace from the room and hesitated behind him as he tapped on his mother's door. When she came out he offered his arm and they went down the stairs Natalie feeling rather forlorn as she followed.

Horace seated his mother, then drew out her chair. As she sank into it she felt Mrs. Crandell's eyes upon her.

"You should have told your wife we dress for dinner, Horace," she said.

"It is a rule of the house," this to Natalie. In spite of her age, Mrs. Crandell was in dinner dress, shimmering violet silk and old lace, and looked very aristocratic, very elegant.

"Horace had said this so often Natalie believed it. Mrs. Crandell had seemed so cold, formal, on the two occasions she had met her. But now that Natalie was Horace's wife, she naturally would be different. So with this in her mind, Natalie entered her husband's home.

Mrs. Crandell was scrupulously polite, hoped they had had a pleasant time, but all her show of affection, her kiss of greeting was for Horace. A cold handshake was all she gave Natalie. Chilled the bride followed the maid to her

Twenty Four Cars Roar to Starting Line in 500-Mile International Sweepstakes Before Crowd Estimated at 150,000

Motor Speedway, Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—On every hand one hears nothing but superlatives. The greatest automobile race in history started on the world's finest motor course before the largest crowd ever assembled in America to witness a sporting event. Twenty four racing motors started at 10 a.m. in the 500-mile international sweepstakes, paced around the two and a half mile brick track on the pre-starting lap. It was

AFFILIATION TO UNIONS IS NOT ASKED IN MINES

Stone Declares Policy On Colliery Company in West Virginia

Cleveland, O., May 30.—"We ask no man's union affiliations."

This was the answer of Warren S. Stone, chairman of the board of directors of the Coal River Collieries Company, operating mines in West Virginia and eastern Kentucky to-day, to the statement of Fred Mooney, secretary of District 17, United Miners Workers of America, that the international miners union had called a strike at their mines because of the adoption of the "open shop" policy.

Stone, as grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, is head of one of the strongest and oldest labor unions in the United States.

First news of the battle between two of the strongest labor unions in the United States was contained in International News Service dispatches from Charleston, W. Va., yesterday.

These reports were confirmed by Mr. Stone at his offices here.

"At our workings in West Virginia we pay the union scale," Stone explained. "Men may join the union or stay out. In eastern Kentucky the miners are not organized. They can form a union if they want to. We pay the prevailing rate of wages, and we have not sought to compel the men either to stay out of the union or go into it."

The Coal River Colliery Company is largely owned by members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. A $2,000,000 corporation it was organized during the coal strike of 1922, the mines purchased, and in the announcement of policy, it was stated that the company, unlike other corporations "had a soul." It was the second big cooperative enterprise founded by the railroad brotherhood, the first being the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers National Bank, which has enjoyed phenomenal success.

Mooney, secretary of the miners in West Virginia, the scene of recent titanic struggles with operators in the southern West Virginia coal fields, which culminated in the "miners war" of 1921, which ended only with the calling out of federal troops, reiterated today in a telegram to International News Service his charge that the colliery company had definitely adopted the "open shop" policy of operation.

The monument is a gift of the American Bar Association.

John W. Davis, of New York, made the presentation address.

On the national body's committee were Andrew W. Squier of Cleveland and Senator Selden Palmer Spencer of Missouri.

A delegation from the Ohio supreme court was present and a Cleveland party was headed by Paul Lamb, law director of Cleveland.

MEMORIAL PROPOSED.

New York, May 30.—Mrs. Anna Lee, 50 years old, a widow and blind, was found strangled to death and robbed in her home here early today. The body was found by her son, William, 17, on his return from work at a newspaper plant.

The young man found his mother on a bed. Unable to arouse her he notified a policeman who summoned an ambulance. At the hospital it was decided she died of natural causes. Later, however, the police found a quarter inch cord tightly drawn around Mrs. Lee's neck and a bruise on the side of her head. The motive for the slaying, according to the first police theory, was robbery.

Great Falls, Mont., May 30.—Lewis and Clark County entertained Jack Dempsey today. The heavyweight champ, equipped with fishing tackle, calculated to bring fear into the hearts of all the finny tribe, left bright and early this morning for the famous trout stream on the Seine River.

Withdrawal of Chinese soldiers from contact with their stronghold; central Chinese government to furnish the bandits regularly with food and clothing; southwestern Shantung bandits to the number of 10,000 to be formed into four mixed brigades under the direct control of the central government, which should furnish arms and ammunition; Peking government to give bandit troops six months' pay in advance, also arrears of pay not to exceed six months, and upon consent of the central government to the above terms an agreement to be drawn up between it and the bandit forces, to be signed in the presence of a representative of the diplomatic corps, who would act as guarantor for the faithful execution of the agreement.

LIBRARY TO BENEFIT FROM LECTURE ON TUESDAY EVENING

The Library Association will realize generously from the interesting lectures and entertainment furnished by R. Hayes Hamilton, creator of the Hamilton Travelogues at the Jean B. Elwell Auditorium of the new Central High School Tuesday night.

Mr. Hamilton, who donated his services, was greeted by a large audience. Especially interesting were the motion pictures of Miss Jean B. Elwell, for whom the auditorium was named, of the new and old high school buildings and of the class of 1923.

The pictures were taken by Mr. Hamilton himself and represented particularly clever bits of photography. The local pictures were shown as a prologue following a selection by the High School Orchestra, composed of Don Currie, Vic Weaver, Robert Hurley, William Horner and Miss Helen Hurley preceding the introduction by Principal Harper C. Pendry of Central High School.

Mr. Hamilton was assisted by William T. Whittington, motion picture machine operator and Arthur Currie dileanoscope operator.

EXAMINE NINE CHILDREN MONDAY

Four of the children were examined for the first time, five being old cases. Three of the children were from Xenia, one from Spring Valley, one from Beavercreek Twp., one from Bath Twp., one from Silvercreek Twp. (Jamestown) and two from Miami Twp. (Yellow Springs.)

One case was recommended for a major operation, one for a minor operation, one child was fitted with a brace, one had an X-ray taken, 4 were recommended for special treatment other than operation, and one came in for observation only.

The Red Cross is meeting with splendid co-operation throughout the county with the families of the children, physicians and laymen according to officials. Through the Rotary Club and Red Cross a splendid piece of constructive work is being done for Greene County, they say.

STYLES

Although printed crepes have long been featured as the dominant note in the spring and summer fashions, plain silk dresses of the variety that may be worn throughout the summer are by no means in the background of interesting models. They are shown in various silhouettes. Straight lines usually characterize the dress to be worn in the mornings, but the afternoon dress takes more liberties.

There are the modified Egyptian drape, which is accomplished frequently by drawing the skirt upward in front. The backward drape, which we have been calling the bustle, is another of the distinctive contours that is worn a lot, usually most gracefully by the taller woman. And there is the full circular skirt in combination with a long, straight bodice, which does look rather quaint on a petite figure.

Nor is the straight line silhouette ignored for afternoon wear, as may be judged from the exceedingly attractive dress illustrated. Such a dress may begin the day in town at lunch, and may be safely worn for dinner and the theater, if more formal dress is not a necessity. It is made of honey colored flat crepe, which many women prefer because of its faint lustre. The straightness of the contour is softened but scarcely modified by the narrow pleated panel and the dainty lace collar and cuffs are both cool-looking and fashionable.

STUNTS AND GAMES FEATURE MEETING OF ROTARY CLUB

OUTLINES PLANS AND OBJECTS OF PLAYGROUND WORK

"Ladies Night" was the occasion of another pleasurable informal meeting of the members of the Xenia Rotary Club, Tuesday evening, at the Elks' Club.

About sixty people, members of the club and their wives, attended the dinner and program. Features of the program were in charge of the "stunt committee" which furnished an evening of entertainment for the guests. Following several amusing events, Edwin Woodward and F. H. Young, sponsors of the playground movement in Xenia, explained the project before the body.

Mirth was added to the occasion when Mr. Young introduced a series of group games in which members of the club and their guests participated.

OVER 2 THOUSAND SCHOOL PUPILS COMPLETE WORK

Two thousand and twenty-five pupils completed the school year in the Xenia City public schools which closed last week, according to final facts of the year compiled by Superintendent of Schools C. A. Waltz.

Of this number 1,021 were boys and 1,004 were girls. The total enrollment in high school was 540 which represents 25.73 percent of the total enrollment. There were 62 teachers employed and 93 students graduated from Xenia High Schools.

In the high schools 17 per cent of the total enrollment graduated and only 4.4 per cent failed of promotion in two or more subjects. In the elementary schools only 3.8 per cent of the enrollment failed of promotion. These percentages of failure, 4.4 per cent in the high schools and 3.8 per cent in the grades are very low and give evidence of the success of the three-group plan of instruction, the mental and educational testing in use and the efficiency and excellency of the teachers' work according to Superintendent Waltz.

"With the continuation of the above methods," said Mr. Waltz, "together with the cooperation of parents with the school in seeing to it that children do their work thoroughly thus backing up the efforts of the teachers in that direction, we should realize the great ideal of having a 'flunkless' school next year."

"Xenia can well be proud of the record of having more than 25 per cent of all its school children in the high schools and of having had work so well done by teachers and pupils that only 4 per cent of the enrollment of over 2,000 children, failed to pass. Education comes high but with such a record as that it certainly pays."

"The School Administration takes this opportunity to thank the patrons of the schools, the citizens, the various P. T. A. organizations and all who have given cooperation, constructive criticism and patronage to the schools and school activities.

"Let all parents begin next year with the slogan to 'Know Your Schools' and your child's teacher."

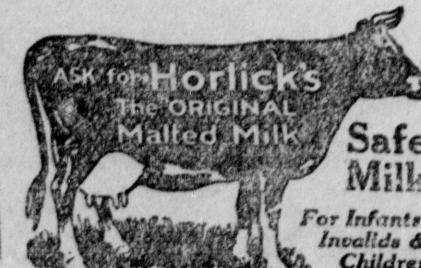

INSTITUTE PLANNED FOR LEADERSHIP IN RECREATIONAL WORK

Plans for an institute to instruct playground leaders in story telling, dramatization and pageantry were laid at a meeting of the drama committee of the Community Recreation Association at the playground campaign headquarters, 48 East Main street, Tuesday afternoon.

The committee is composed of Mrs. Lois Olcott, chairman; Miss Jean B. Elwell, Mrs. Charles Adair, Mrs. W. Crawford Craig, H. A. Higgins, Roy C. Hayward and H. E. Klerman. The work of the committee was outlined when the meeting opened by Frank H. Young, of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, who is directing the campaign.

The institute, which it is hoped to hold next week, will be for people of all ages, from graduates of high school up. They will be given instruction in how to tell stories to children, develop dramatic talent pageants, which will be part of the playground and recreation work this summer if the campaign meets with success.

It was brought out at the meeting that there is latent dramatic talent in everyone only waiting to be brought out, and this will be a big part of the playground program. Members of the committee were asked to bring at least ten prospective dramatic workers apiece to the institute, the date of which will be announced later.

a bringing together of the people of our community, without regard to party, class or creed, but just as "folks." It means wholesome leisure time activities which make for better health, better character, and better citizenship. "It is the people's own expression of the social instinct in a natural and wholesome way and brings them together in a truly democratic spirit. By talking together, playing together, and working together, for the community, its members become better friends and better citizens," Mr. Woodward explained.

"Leisure time activities may be social, recreational, educational and civic in character, but what Xenia needs is playgrounds with trained leaders, wholesome indoor and outdoor sports, the wider use of school buildings as social and recreational centers, open air forums, community houses, rest rooms, for strangers and rural visitors, libraries, information and service bureaus, neighborhood associations, community music, drama and pageantry, patriotic and holiday celebrations, a citizenship program, for better citizenship or other forms of 'off-time' activities in which large groups can get together."

HARD LUCK WINS LONG PROBATION

Los Angeles, May 30.—The bad luck of Sam Hutchinson, after all, proved to be his good luck, both in and out of crime.

In fact, Hutchinson had such a run of bad luck that he was lucky enough to get probation on a charge of being a member of a band of box car burglars.

It was after his arrest that Hutchinson's hard luck story was brought out. In the first place, when it came to entering the box cars he was always unlucky enough to get an empty one, while his pals, on the other hand, consistently entered cars in which was found valuable loot.

Then, on the night he was arrested, his wife was taken to the hospital. A few days later a gas main in his home broke and his house was destroyed by fire. It was not insured.

Hutchinson's story of woe and bad luck was told when he appeared before Judge Avery. It was apparent from his story that if he were sent to prison his wife and child would be the greatest sufferers of his wrongs. Judge Avery placed Hutchinson on probation for 10 years, and if his bad luck departs he will make good, he told Judge Avery.

Revolutionary Cemetery Graves Are Found Empty

Darien, Conn., May 30.—Absolutely no trace of bodies was found in the historic old cemetery on the Boston Post road here, when an effort was made to remove supposed remains of Revolutionary soldiers before the post road was widened, and the furor created among patriotic societies when the proposition first was broached seems to have been useless.

Removing a dozen gravestones of ancient date, workers found only a few pieces of metal beneath, one being a brass hinge. Now it is believed the bodies were buried elsewhere and the stones erected for camouflage purposes in the stormy Revolutionary days when this was practically "No Man's Land."

Enthusiastic Gardener Spades Up City Street

Bellaire, Ohio, May 30.—Hugo Spicowich spaded up the yard in the rear of his home here. So well did he like garden-making that he continued spading out into the street. He had 50 feet of the street ready for cultivation when city officials restrained him.

THREATEN TO ELECTRIFY CITY TO DEFEAT GAS CO.

Portland, Ind., May 30.—A threat to electrify the entire city of Portland has been made by the Portland Chamber of Commerce in answer to a move of the local gas company to ask for increased rates. The Chamber plans to launch a drive to replace all gas lights and gas stoves with electric equipment. The Portland electric plant is municipally owned.

WISCONSIN HEN'S EGG HALF AN INCH LONG.

Superior, Wis., May 30.—A hen owned by Philip Sewall has laid the smallest egg ever seen in this vicinity, according to poultry dealers. The egg measured only half an inch in length and was perfectly shaped. It was laid by a Rhode Island hen. Another egg, just a trifle larger, was laid by the same hen.

AMMONIA FAILS TO STOP DRY OFFICIAL

Tampa, Fla., May 30.—An unusual form of defense was employed by Bert Fife, living near St. Petersburg, when officers raided his homestead to demolish a moonshine liquor still they claimed was there.

Fife and his partner had a large bottle of ammonia on hand, to which a syringe was attached. With this the ammonia was thrown in a stream for about ten feet. Constable C. J. Simms was able to dodge the stream of liquid but the fumes stopped him for a few seconds.

As soon as the ammonia supply had given out the officer advanced and made his arrests.

U. S. TOO ALOOF FROM REST OF WORLD, SAYS HENRY ALLEN.

Henry J. Allen, former Governor of Kansas, back from a six weeks' inspection tour in the Near East in the interests of the Near East Relief, declares his belief is "strengthened that the United States is too far off from the rest of the world, and I am more than ever impressed with the feeling that my country ought to follow President Harding's suggestion and join the International Court." All objections to the plan he labeled as insincere.

"In Russia the only question is how long one class of people will continue to work so another class may enjoy an industrial paradise. This so-called 'Government by the people' is supported, as was the Government of the Czar, by the bayonets of a standing army. The Russians are a slow moving people but I do not think they will stand the present crowd as long as they did the Romanoffs. The Soviet is doing things the other crowd did not dare to do."

Based on what he heard, Mr. Allen reached the conclusion that the oligarchy said to be in control of the Soviet Government would some day be wiped out as a result of the greatest program in the history of Russia.

The ex-Governor does not believe that Turkey alone can ever govern Constantinople as it would be impossible for her to hold off her former enemies. "Turkey ought to turn the Dardanelles over to the League of Nations," he said. "It is a virgin region for a war-preventing agency. The best thing that could happen would be to let the Turk develop a Government in the interior of the country and let an international man take control of Constantinople in equal justice to everybody else."

"Everybody talked about the Chester concession from the Caliph to the Greek patriarch. Undoubtedly many excellent opportunities for the development of resources and manifestly the greatest need for equipment have been provided by the Chester concession. On the other hand one of the difficulties confronting those attempting to market the Chester option is the fact that the restrictions provided may impress American capitalists as being too burdensome."

"One, for instance, stipulated that all labor employed be Turkish. The American capitalist has discovered that he can get all the labor difficulties he wants without especially providing for them in a contract."

Special tribute was paid to the United States Navy by Mr. Allen, who said its relief work in the Near East has made it a great missionary agency for the United States, teaching "the proclamation of doctrine not anti-anything."

THE WETS AND 1924.

Uneasy political strategists are said to be troubling themselves about the "wet issue" in the 1924 campaign. They dwell unduly on the November, 1922, results in New York, New Jersey and Missouri. The hot air generated is taking on the shape of Senator Underwood, of Alabama, emerging from a wet Democratic convention next year as a wet candidate on a wet platform. In a dull and torpid time when rumors run and speculations flourish, the wet web is spun like this:

Underwood, wet son of a bone-dry Solid South, can make the South forget its dryness in its pride of him. Ten States, then, of the old Solid South would give him 114 electoral votes. Alabama would give 12; Arkansas 9; Florida 6; Georgia 14; Louisiana 10; Mississippi 10; North Carolina 12; South Carolina 9; Texas 20, and Virginia 12.

To these the wet pipe-dreamers add some 89 more; Massachusetts 18; Rhode Island 5; Connecticut 7; New York 45, and New Jersey 14. Total 203 votes. Not enough.

So, to the Solid South and the sloshing wet Atlantic seaboard add Missouri's 18 and the "border States," Maryland 8; Kentucky 13, and Tennessee 12. In their wildest moments the wets can find but 254 possible Democratic votes, or 12 short of the number needed. All of this time they are forgetting William Jennings Bryan, who has at least one grand fight left in him yet.

They are also forgetting or ignoring that Senator Underwood is on the black book of the suffragists. In her book, "Woman Suffrage and Politics," Carrie Chapman Catt refers to him as one "who shared dishonor with Senator Reed as the chief obstructionist" in the 1919 Senate debate. In the blowing of bubbles it is easy to forget many matters.

The Underwood wet web is filled with "ifs" and "buts." Is the Democratic Party ready to go wet? Even the Solid South may balk, for it has been as dry, politically, as a fence rail in August. Underwood may not be able to head off Ralston, McAdoo or some other Democratic runner. He might refuse to run as a wet candidate even though party and platform were awash with wetness. The "border States" are most uncertain quantities. Missouri is not hitched to Democracy, although the Tribe of the Show-Mes verily is a wet tribe.

It is a Lost Cause. Two years ago there might have been a chance for it out this way. We are beginning to forget it now and we want to forget it.

Exactly. The issue is not an issue any longer, taking the country as a whole. Outside of maybe a dozen States, it is not in the voter's mind. He accepts it as settled and is thinking of other things.

WHAT WE OWE TO BLUE SPARK.

Electricity has done so much to modernize every community in the country that it is difficult to measure its effect. Electricity is an essential element of modern life. If we picture the functions it performs for the community as for an individual electricity furnishes light for our eyes, speech and sound for our ears, transportation to our bodies, strength to our arms, heat for our comfort and service, and power to our industries.

A great modern city without necessities and conveniences furnished by electricity is almost unthinkable, and should one follow the daily life of an individual from the time he gets up in the morning to the time he goes to bed, the use he makes of the power furnished by the modern appliances of electricity is almost continuous throughout the day.

Mr. Fred R. Torrence, a former Xenia boy, who is connected with "Success" in New York City, displays his talent in a cleverly written illustrated article in the June number of that publication.

What might have been a serious accident occurred yesterday afternoon on the D. and X. traction line on the hill on the Shaker Pike, when one of the forward wheels on the car suddenly went to pieces. The motorist fortunately had his car under control and stopped it before any damage was done.

J. F. Melage, shoemaker, 426 W. Second St., Xenia, says: "My back throbbed and ached constantly. Every time I stooped the least bit I got a stab of pain through my back that felt just like a knife cut. When I bent it was hard to straighten again, my back was so knotted up. Mornings I dreaded to get up, I was so stiff and lame. I easily tired and soon became very weak. My kidneys were too free in action and I had to get up several times at night to pass the secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly praised that I got some. I used about six boxes when I was absolutely cured of the backache and my kidneys again became normal."

Today's Talk

MR. GHOST

It is well to know the names of the ones who stand ready to trip us up when we least suspect it—and also it is well to know a little about them, their habits and characteristics.

Here is the name of one of these fellows—Mr. Ghost! He is after us all. None may escape him, for he is the craftiest, cleverest and cruellest of all the "trippers."

The more intelligent you are, the stronger in body or mind, the more liable is Mr. Ghost to lie in wait for you. Only the always alert are able to escape his snares.

Mr. Ghost dresses up differently for different people. One day you will see him in his neat suit of conventionality, then again he flashes out in his mysterious makeup of fear. He stops people on the street, talks flattery and tries to make them miss their appointments because he is so quick to detect any unseens of thought or manner.

How different would all our lives be were it not that we have to dodge and fight this Mr. Ghost all the time! "I can" and "I will" are two expressions that make Mr. Ghost tremble. And when you say to his face "I am not afraid," he turns and runs so fast that before you hardly realize he is no more.

Mr. Ghost doesn't like crowds. He likes to come to town when they are alone, for he is a great arguer and if anything is sure to destroy poise and break down a happy frame of mind, is argument. So—when you meet Mr. Ghost alone, just give him one look right into the eyes and tell him—well, tell him that you don't need him that's all!

Bear in mind at all times, however, that Mr. Ghost is no weakling. He deceives best with those who are strongest.

But you must be stronger than he! Dismiss him. He is ONLY a ghost!

natural. In fact, baseball men are about ready to concede that Johnson may have killed two birds with one deal.

If it hadn't been for Huston, Frazee and Charley Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, there would have been no baseball war over the sale of Carl Mays to the Yanks. Ruppert was a party to the controversy only for the sake of appearances. He is a Johnson man at heart and always was.

Huston is now one of baseball's dear departed. He has sold out his half interest in the Yankees to Ruppert and no longer controls a vote in American league affairs. Frazee, so it seems, is about to go, taking with him the polite regrets of the entire league. That makes it look very sour for Comiskey.

He sponsored the attack on Johnson's position that resulted in the installation of Judge Landis as the supreme head of baseball. Comiskey was motivated by personal grievances in this instance, but there is no doubt that the campaign was waged on disinterested grounds. Johnson had become too big for the game he essayed to control. He was thought to have been stripped of all power by the treaty of peace that was signed after the Mays tumult but the second guessers seem to have had the right of it. With Huston gone and Frazee about to take his leave, Johnson has the personal satisfaction of controlling his own league, if nothing else, leaving Comiskey the alternative of yes-ing the rest of them or forever holding his peace.

JOHNSON STILL STRONG.

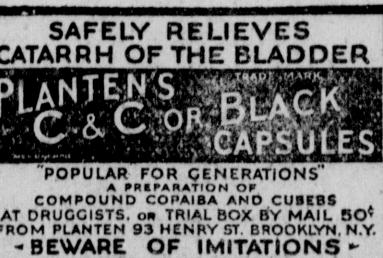

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, May 30.—Ban Johnson may be all his enemies proclaim him to be but the reported sale of the Red Sox over Harry Frazee's well known head, makes it appear as though Byron still swings some influence in American league politics. Johnson has been gunning for Frazee for some years. If, as reputed, Frazee is about to sell the club to friends, the transaction represents a personal and political victory for the former czar of baseball.

It is barely possible, also, that Johnson was moderately pleased by the fact that Col. T. L. Huston sold out his share in the New York Yankees to Charlie Ruppert. Huston and Frazee were the irreconcilables of the American league circuit. They were pronounced anti-Johnson men.

Just what hand the president of the American league held in the transfer of Huston's stock is not known but the coincidence whereby Frazee is said to be ready to depart from baseball is almost too spontaneous to be

The Pennsylvania railroad over-head bridge on South Detroit Street will be beautified this season with flower boxes according to statements made by C. A. Kennedy, gardener for the railroad, and for the first time in two years the depot park, and the railroad park on South Detroit adjoining the Springfield branch, will be given special attention and made real beauty spots.

Mr. Kennedy states that he has a profusion of Zinnia plants and as he has more than can be used in the company parks he will have between two and three hundred plants that he will give away. Persons wishing plants are asked to call at the depot supply room any morning between 7 and 8 o'clock.

The beautifying work planned by the railroad company will be a very great help in making Xenia a city beautiful this summer and will be greatly appreciated by local people.

BIBLE CONFERENCE WILL BE HELD ON AUGUST 5 TO 12

The program of the 1923 Xenia Bible Conference, August 5 to 12, will be a strong one, according to plans laid by the Conference Committee at the home of Dr. A. W. Jamieson, Tuesday evening.

President J. Kelly Giffen, of Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tennessee, will be the preacher for August 5 of the Conference, and will conduct Bible Studies during the first half of the week. Dr. George L. Robinson of Chicago, whom the committee has been trying to secure for some years, will be the Bible teacher during the last half of the week, and the preacher on August 12, Dr. Henry Chung, Korean Commissioner to the United States, one of the most popular men on the Chautauqua platform, will give two great lectures, one on "The Oriental Policy of the United States," and the other on "Christianity and Korean Natural Life." His dates are Tuesday and Wednesday, August 7 and 8, at eight p. m. Another attractive name on the evening program is S. A. Fulton, of "The Gideons."

Lieut. & Mrs. John A. MacReady, MIA.

E. E. K.—"Here are two little hints which may help other women. When baking apples I always fill the center-holes with brown sugar and a small piece of butter; and when stewing prunes I generally slice one small lemon into one pound of prunes."

Answer.—Thank you. It is just these little things that the housekeeper finds helpful.

Mrs. N. M.—"I have two lovely parchment lamp shades which are badly out of shape. Can anyone tell me how to get them back into their original round shape?"

Answer.—Let us hope that if any Reader Friend knows she will drop me a postal telling how. I can then publish the information in this column.

A. N. C.—"How can I remove grease stains from a gunmetal-topped range?"

Answer.—Beeswax is the only thing I know of that will thoroughly clean gummetal.

Housewife.—"Kindly advise me how to make a braided rag mat—how wide to cut the strips, what colors to use and how to construct the rug?"

Answer.—You did not say what kind of rag you intended to use—cotton or wool. But I shall assume you mean cotton. (Although a wool mat wears longer.) Old table linens or cotton sheets are excellent to use; for they can be died the desired color. I personally favor a gray and old-rose combination or a gray and old-blue. Cut your strips two inches wide and double lengthwise, folding in the extreme edges so there will be no raveling.) Crease and begin to braid three strands of these folded strips. Or, if you prefer, you can braid five strands of them. Sew this braid round and round from the center. A pretty pattern is obtained by braiding the two colors for the center part, then changing to all gray (or all rose) strands for several rows, then returning to a mixture of the two colors—until the rug is the desired size.

Mrs. C. C.—"How can a jelly roll be rolled without breaking?"

Answer.—Have a sheet of brown paper under the cake and keep this paper pressed against the cake as you roll. There is a little knack about it, but the paper is the secret of success.

definite type. You may see one young woman in a dress on straight up and down lines, with the embroidered section of the material forming the neckline and the border of the skirt, and remark how smart the frock looks. And then you will see somebody equally chic-looking in a dress with the skirt arranged in two or three tiers.

There are no hard and fast rules for the summer dress. One of the nicest I have seen is nothing but the old familiar chemise dress, made of French voile with a raised diamond shaped pattern in light blue with plain white voile used for what is called the "jabot drape" at the side of the dress, the long point reaching almost to the floor.

SAYS FRENCH ARMY IS ALL DRESSED UP AND NO PLACE TO GO

That the French Army in the Ruhr is "all dressed up with no place to go" was the assertion of J. Henry Scattergood, Philadelphia manufacturer, who has just returned from the Ruhr where he went to investigate food conditions under the auspices of the American Friends Service Committee, in addressing students of Antioch College Tuesday afternoon.

"Passive resistance, or turning the other cheek, is the way Germany is meeting the Ruhr invasion," he said. "When the French troops enter a town, the German workmen stop their industrial activities and the invaders are up against the problem of providing their own labor. Having gone into Germany with the prime purpose of obtaining coal, they are failing because they are afraid to go underground for it. The fear of cut ropes keeps the French miners on surface."

"The great fall in value of the mark has caused Germans to spend their fortunes, which they had accumulated for years. Rather than see them deprecate under their eyes they are squandering their money as rapidly as possible. Of course this causes great activities in the factories and results in reports of Germany's improved industrial activities which are brought back by tourists."

The World Court is the best solution of the present international crisis regardless of politics. It is a crime if it should be made a political issue by either of the great parties.

NATALIE'S HOME COMING

look awfully like a man's rooms, though. I—" "Get anything you want for them, I'll wager they won't look like bachelor's quarters very long," he said, kissing her. He was really pleased at her decision.

"Whew!" he exclaimed, looking at his watch. "We'll have to hurry and get dressed. The Mater is terribly strict about being prompt at meals. Don't forget that, dear."

"Do you always dress for dinner at home?" Natalie asked.

"Of course!" he looked at her in surprise.

Natalie donned her wedding dress, the simple crepe. Horace looked at her.

"You must get some clothes at once. Mother will scarcely consider you properly dressed for dinner in that gown."

Natalie's lip quivered. It was her best, her wedding dress. The day she was married Horace had told her she looked very sweet. But he had said nothing of that sort now, although she had taken great pains with her hair, and had felt quite satisfied until he spoke. She turned her head that he might not see her disappointment.

"I'll give you a bank account," he went on, "and buy what is necessary to good appearance at once. Then you can order things made. Mother will tell you where to go."

Natalie made no answer, dinner was just then announced, and none was needed. She followed Horace from the room and hesitated behind him as he tapped on his mother's door. When she came out he offered his arm and they went down the stairs Natalie feeling rather forlorn as she followed.

Horace seated his mother, then drew her chair. As she sank into it she felt Mrs. Crandell's eyes upon her.

"You should have told your wife we dress for dinner, Horace," she said. "It is a rule of the house," this to Natalie. In spite of her age, Mrs. Crandell was in dinner dress, shimmering violet silk and old lace, and looked very aristocratic, very elegant.

"Horace did tell me," Natalie said, then at a quick warning look from Horace said no more. Mrs. Crandell and Horace kept up a running conversation concerning people and things of which she knew nothing but she spoke very aristocratically.

"They are all so lovely, Horace, I feel as if I were in fairy land. They
